

JOB DESCRIPTION

UX/UI Design Student

About Xara Cloud

We are searching for a passionate UX/UI Design Student that want to launch their career is working on innovative software products. You will be assigned project to get real hands-on experience and interact directly with experienced design and engineering teams.

Xara is a remote first company with meeting point offices in Berlin and Hemel Hempstead UK.

Job Description

- In collaboration with the Product Designer you will create new concepts and improve the existing UX of the web application and validate them with user testing and research
- You will bring your ideas of developing a modern, user focused and easy to use application for businesses. As a part of our design team, you will help by making our product more human and create user focused happy flows
- You will be involved in a very early steps of developing new progressive features. Research and statistics analysis will be one of the most important tasks for you.
- You will get experience of working with a design system, create the new UI and collaborate with our engineers to bring it to life

About you

- You are currently studying web design, communication design or comparable
- You have good English skills (our corporate language is English)
- A user-oriented approach for design process and application both qualitative and quantitative research methodologies to validate your solutions
- First experience in UX/UI design, web design will be beneficial
- Experience using Figma and/or working with design systems
- Open for constructive criticism during the feedback circles with our team for finding the best solution